Organizational Assessments are powerful tools for identifying an organization's strengths and areas in need of improvement. They are the critical starting point for initiating any type of organizational change. Objective and systematic, an AHRS Organizational Assessment will provide you with a snapshot of your company's health. Analysis focuses on the capacity within specific sectors of your organization and guides the development of tactics to support the achievement of organizational objectives.

FOCUS

Organizational assessment can be focused broadly on the entire organization, departmentally, or on specific sectors, including:

- Board of Directors
- Administration and Faculty
- Educational and Artistic Programming
- Marketing & Communications
- Development

OVERVIEW

The process starts with research into the company itself – a review of processes, operating systems, current strategies, and workplace culture. It provides a diagnosis of your organization's health in terms of mission, leadership and direction. The analysis can be used as a baseline study to improve the effectiveness of the organization in the short term, or as a springboard for strategic planning.
